Dobbs on TV Explains Need for Labor Party

Flays GOP and Democrats for Atom War Plans

(Text of acceptance speech by Farrell Dobbs, SWP candidate for U.S. President, given over CBS-TV on Sept. 8. It will be repeated over CBS-Radio, Tuesday, Sept. 11, at 10:45-11 P.M. EDT.)

The key issue in national politics today is the need for the unions to launch an independent labor party in opposition to both the Democratic and Republican parties. This political step is urgently needed to prevent the capitalists from plunging the country into an atomic war.

In accepting nomination as the Presidential candidate of the Socialist Workers Party, I will undertake to explain why the class realities of American society require the workers to take the road of independent politithe workers. The nation's industries and banking system have been made the private property of the capitalist class. Through their stranglehold on the national economy the capitalists run the government, regulate public information, control public education and dominate cultural Politically they impose their basic policies on both the Republican and Democratic parties, permitting them to disagree only on side issues where vital capitalist interests are not at stake. These minor issues are used by the two capitalist parties to run a political sideshow to delude people into thinking they have some actual voice in shaping the government.

The Road of Liberals

The capitalists are now using their monopoly control over the major parties to prepare a war of world conquest. They are conducting a witch hunt against all who oppose the imperialist foreign policy. They are preparing to make the working people finance the war through ultimate cuts in real wages and social benefits.

In contrast to the capitalists, the workers are virtually propertyless as a class, owning at most a home, an automobile or other necessities. Their class ties arise from mutual dependence on wage labor to earn a livelihood. Potentially the workers are more powerful than the capitalists. They are stronger numerically and are capable of dynamic action because of their concentration into compact bodies within industry. Once they break with capitalist ideas in politics the workers will emerge as the greatest social force in the nation.

The class struggle in industry has taught the workers to look upon the capitalists as an enemy class at the union level. But they have yet to realize that the capitalist politicians they confront in government are all class agents of the very capitalists against whom they must struggle on the job. Above all they are deceived by the liberal politicians who cleverly pose as friends of labor.

Liberalism is a capitalist reform tendency arising out of the middle class. Included in this class formation are managers, professional people, small businessmen and similar elements. They seek political reforms to curb the power of the big monopolies but basically they support the capitalist system. As a class they are incapable of opposing Big Business rule without political leadership invasion of Korea, Wallace showed his fundamental loy- a growing realization of the need to use their class power from the workers.

Henry Wallace is a liberal, a former New Dealer who headed the Progressive Party ticket in the 1948 elections. Although Wallace is no longer prominent in politics, his record is instructive. In 1948 he campaigned for office on a promise to oppose war. When Truman launched the

No Need to Act, Says Eisenhower

At his Sept. 5 press conference President Eisenhower revealed that he is no friend of the Negro people nor a defender of those sections of the constitution dealing with civil rights.

Peppered with questions by reporters about his attitude to the white-supremacist rioting against school desegregation in Tennessee and Texas, he started off by declaring that there was no need for federal intervention. He said that the attorney for the Negro school children in Mansfield, Texas, had requested federal help but this was unnecessary because "the Texas authorities had moved in and order was restored, so the question became unimportant.'

When reporters pointed out that Governor Shivers had sent state police not to enforce the federal court order integrating the Mansfield school but to remove the Negro children and put them back in Jim Crow schools, and while doing so had publicly declared his defiance of the federal government, Eisenhower could only reply that he had not seen Gov. Shiver's statement.

Eisenhower went out of his way to attack "extremists on both sides" of the desegregation struggle. This is becoming a favorite formula for those taking a Pontius Pilate attitude on the school desegregation issue. They wish to wash their hands of the desegregation fight and thus uphold the Jim Crow status quo by implying that both sides are equally at fault - that trouble is caused by "extremists on both sides."

Favorable Civil Liberties Rulings

A number of civil liberties victories have been won in Federal courts recently. For instance, on Aug. 14, the Government lost an action to reinstate contempt of Congress indictments against Corliss Lamont and two other persons who had refused to answer questions of the Senate sub-committee on investigations when it was headed by Joseph McCarthy. The ruling upheld the defense contention that the committee was out of its jurisdiction in investigating persons not in the Gov-

Again, on Aug. 29 a government suit to strip Rose Chernin Kutnitz, head of the Los Angeles Committee for the Protection of Foreign Born, was thrown out of U.S. District Court. And on Aug. 30, the State Department issued a previouslydenied passport to Leonard B. Boudin, General Counsel for the Emergency Civil Liberties Committee.

Victories such as these are heartening. They all stem from determined struggles put up by civil liberties defenders. But they do not signify the break-up of the witch hunt which continues to grind out a fresh batch of victims in each of its divisions. Furthermore, in most cases, the victories were scored on narrow legal points or because of retreat by the Justice Department. In this way, the courts and the Justice Department avoided a test on the constitutionality of witch-hunting measures.

Thus the structure of the witch hunt remains intact. Its basic pillars are these: The Smith Act, recently made more vicious

ARAMCO's Anti-Semitism

The United States Government is supporting anti-Jewish discrimination by the Arabian American Oil Company (Aramco) and its vassal, King Ibn Saud of Saudi Arabia, in at least three officially admitted instances.

One: The U.S. agreed to a ban on hiring Jews at the Dharan Air Base in the 1951 agreement with Saudi Arabia. This agreement is still in effect. Two: American soldiers assigned to bases in Saudi Arabia are screened to eliminate Jews. This practice has been protested by the American Civil Liberties Union, but is still in effect. Three: ARAMCO refuses to hire Jews even though the New York office of the firm hires hundreds of Americans annually.

The American Jewish Congress last month filed a complaint with the New York State Commission Against Discrimination charging ARAMCO with refusing to hire Jews even for its New York operations.

The New York Commission had sanctioned the anti-Semitism of the company in a 1950 ruling under direct orders of the U.S. State Department (which was under Democratic administration at that time). This is admitted in the New York Times of Aug. 3.

King Ibn Saud, allows Wall-Streetowned ARAMCO to plunder the country's natural resources over the opposition of the Arab masses. ARAMCO pays royalDemocrats, is really aimed at the NAACP and all others who demand that the Supreme Court decision be enforced.

Those laws and those sections of the Constitution protecting capitalist private property are strictly and fully enforced by the federal government. There is no talk about "changing the hearts of men" on such matters. Violations result in arrests, trials, fines and imprisonments. But then Eisenhower and all the capitalist politicians have a vested interest in enforcing such laws. In securing to the Negro people their legal rights, they have the coal yard strike and the organizing campaign. His militancy and ability brought him close to the Trotskyist spearhead of the movement and his education in the hectic days of 1933-1934 included not only practical union-building but socialism as well. The great showdown between Minneapolis labor and the bosses came in two strikes in the summer of 1934. Farrell Dobbs played a leading role in these battles that made international news. Not only did they establish unionism in Minneapolis for once and all but they set a new high for militancy and brilliant strategy, for American labor. The workers met and defeated not only the bosses, the police, an army of deputized vigilantes and the national guard - they licked them at every turn and wen the support of large sections of Minneapolis' middle class and the farmers of the state in the process. #### They Walked in Through the Front Door

The epic story of the struggle of the Negro people for full equality, like that of every other people fighting for its rights, is studded with the names of heroes. At every stage of the long struggle there have always been men, women and children for whom the cause of their people has meant more than their very lives. They have invariably been the kind of human beings whose deep-rooted convictions, are coupled with great personal pride and dignity. Our generation, too, is producing its share of heroes.

Millions of opponents of the Jim Crow system roared out their protest at the horrible killing of young Emmett Till. Their bitter anger grew deeper when Look magazine published the confessions of the acquitted killers, Milam and Bryant. But at the same time the ugly confession revealed that 14-year-old Emmett Till had stood up to his lynchers to the end.

Milam and Bryant bitterly complained, "We were never able to scare him. They had filled him so full of poison he was hopeless." They said Emmett Till went to his death defiantly saying, "I'm as good as you are. You can't scare me." Emmett Till died a hero.

Another name was added to the list of those whose courage inspired millions when Autherine Lucy braved a howling mob at the University of Alabama because she had quietly decided that she would not be prevented from attending a school of her own choosing.

And now in the town of Clinton, Tennessee, nine young men and women of high school age, along with their parents, have joined the ranks of the truly heroic figures in the fight for freedom.

The press of the entire world has reported how racist agitators incited mob violence after it became known that Negro students would attend Clinton's previously lily-white high school. And the for almost two weeks daily attended their the filthy insults and threats of violence and quietly entered the side door of the high school to go about their business of obtaining an education. On the eighth day the six young men, again quietly but demonstratively, walked through the front door of the school building.

The Sept. 5 New York Times reported: "Nine of twelve enrolled Negro pupils attended integrated classes in Clinton High School today without incident. With the surrounding countryside tense with interracial ill-will and sporadic outbreaks of violence pitting neighbor against neighbor, the central drama shifted once more to the Negro pupils who have fearlessly appeared each day at the school

"The Negro children, six boys and three girls, were cheerful and spirited. They submitted graciously to sidewalk inquiries from newsmen. . . They were brought to school in cars. However, when the session ended . . . seven of them walked home swinging their books and chatting gaily up the steep hill leading to the Negro settlement some 2,000 yards away."

they are doing it in a way that makes the heart of every partisan of freedom and justice swell with pride and confidence in the coming victory.
